Animal Rescue Highlight

On 6 June 2013, the SPCA received a call about a cat that was caught in a high rise predicament at Lorong Ah Soo. In this instance, the cat had entered into the wrong house and soon after, became panicky and scared because it went into unfamiliar territory. The cat managed to jump out of the window fortuitously, onto an overhanging ledge. Our rescue officer, who was called down to help, managed to lure it into a corner and corral it into a pet carrier. The rescue officer handed the cat over to a stray feeder in the area, and thereafter, it was reunited with its owner. The SPCA had a word with the owner by advising him on how to ensure that his cat does not escape again.

Adoption Spotlight

Randy is a handsome Husky who knows he looks good! On top of being energetic and curious, this little boy is looking for a family that will open their doors and hearts to him. Like most Huskies, Randy needs regular maintenance and grooming to help keep his coat healthy and shiny. He also needs his surroundings kept cool and would do well with a family who knows what a Husky needs. Are you ready to promise this boy forever?

Inspectorate - Case Highlight

We received a report of this young mongrel that was tied near the third floor lift lobby at a HDB block in Bukit Batok. Although we found that the dog was well looked after and was walked 3-5 times a day, we advised the owner to have the dog tied nearer to their unit, so that it would be easier to monitor it. In addition, we also advised that having the dog tied near the lift and staircase would intimidate non-animal lovers, thus prompting them to make a complaint to HDB or Town Council which would result in them having their pet taken away.

Education

Four groups, each consisting of four dynamic and proactive youths, have come together to form groups named "Seal", "Soap", "Oppfportunity" and "Journey with Me" with the noble intention of helping us in our efforts to be the voice for the voiceless. They were chosen as part of the Citi-YMCA Youth for Causes Project, a social entrepreneurship programme encouraging youth everywhere to take the initiative and fundraise for a good cause. With the $1600 seed funding given, they had designed, produced and sold products ranging from dog tags to animal themed notepads. What a great way to raise funds and at the same time to create awareness about the plight of these poor animals. The products have been a tremendous hit with children of all ages, young and young-at-heart snapping them up.

At a young age, these youths already know what it means to be compassionate, kind and thoughtful towards other living creatures besides humans. To ensure that the animals they love and care so passionately about will get a new home, they have been juggling studies, homework and home activities while doing sales at various places in Singapore and in the process, garnering a lot of support, funds and goodwill on behalf of the SPCA. We want to thank them all from the bottom of our hearts.

Happy Ending

"Zephyr was adopted on 20 August 2011, and he is possibly the most beautiful cat that I have seen. With gorgeous markings including an M (he was meant to live with me!) on his forehead and beautiful striped legs. When he sits up straight, he looks particularly dashing as his front paws match perfectly. He has a big personality and is definitely part of the household. Though he is not exactly a lap cat, he hates being left out of anything and will happily sit and keep you company, no matter what you're doing. His favourite game is hiding at the bottom of the stairs and pouncing on anyone going up or down. The best part for him is varying what height he jumps out at so it's always a surprise. You can almost hear him snigger afterwards. We're pretty sure he is part kangaroo as he has incredibly springy back legs - as unsuspecting gekkos have learnt to their detriment! He is hugely independent but despite this, is a big fan of the odd cuddle when the mood takes him, which makes the purrs and affection all the more rewarding." - Mair
